

UNLV Science Engineering and Technology Building

UNLV Science, Engineering & Technology Building - Las Vegas, NV

The Science, Engineering and Technology Building was built with the intention to maximize teaching and laboratory space while providing state-of-the-art equipment and facilities. The Science, Engineering and Technology Building will allow UNLV to recruit Nevada's best students and continue attracting the nation's top faculty by offering them the opportunities, resources and research environment they not only deserve, but also require to be successful in their fields. This building will ensure UNLV remains competitive with the nation's top and most respected institutions.